SALES OF CITY PROPERTY SHOW BIG INCREASE

Eight-Year Record Goes by Boards As Transactions Total $117,915

Sales of city-owned property up to Aug. 15 showed an increase of $32,500 over the same period in 1937 and set an eight-year record. It was noted yesterday that the city had sold 100 lots of its land to the developer of the city's latest departmental center.

Total sales for the seven-and-a-half months period this year were $117,915, compared with $84,365 for the same period of last year.

Last year's sales were in the premises of the Sterling Furniture company at 98 street and Jasper, bought by Friedman, Liebowitz and Neeson for $12,000 in May.

Running this a close second was the sale of 100 war-time lots for $10,000 at 103 street and 10th avenue to the Dominion Fruit company in July.

There was no comparable sales in 1937, the largest one in that year being for $4,000.

UNWIN LAUDS ALBERTA LAWS TO EASTERNERS

Edson M.L.A. Tells Oshawa Rally Legislation Most Advanced in Canada

OSAWWA, Ont., Aug. 22—Joseph H. Unwin, Social Credit member of the Alberta legislature for Edson, Alta., told 1,500 people at an open air rally here that the latest land and protection legislation passed by the Alberta Social Credit party was more advanced in Alberta than any measure advanced in Canada.

"Much of this legislation has been influenced by the direction of the financial interests, but you can't blame us for that," Unwin said. He spoke at a meeting organized by the central Social Credit party of Oshawa.

Mr. Unwin told the audience a minor dividend was the only method of curing the failure of the present distributing system to divide the wealth.

Mr. Unwin, who has been on a tour of eastern Canada for nearly two weeks, will leave for Manitoba around the end of this week to lecture there.

Winnipeg Sells City-Owned Lots At Bargain Price

The lots will cost $50 each and purchasers will be eligible for subsidies up to 50 per cent of the cost of the first year's taxes, 50 per cent of the second and 15 per cent of the third.

Britain Has More To Fear From War Than Any Nation—Nazi Critic

ably in some parts of our sister provinces, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, were either within or a definite way that would occur within a few years are today, when the people with one accord arise in their strength to demand a real and equal social and economic freedom," said the premier.

"Now you see your league has suggested that we may not be forever democratic. Democracy Day. When we think of Aug. 22, 1935, we feel the thrill of the day when we had our great day, was it not? A day long to be remembered. It sounds reverberating throughout the whole world. Since that day Alberta is known in every country and in every world."

RED LETTER DAY

Continued from the premier later declared that "It is becoming a well established fact that every victory for the freedom of the people from bonds of economic slavery is a day in the history of the world. No wonder that Alberta and the Alberta people are the greatest force in the world as a great free race of people with aggressiveness and good will."

Mr. Manning: "But it is not true that some of our opposition insist that our people are below average in intelligence."

Mr. Aberhart: "Oh, I have heard a few of the raid leaders and organizers say that, when they have failed to get their people to believe in theories on the people, but the world does not think so. It is just as well to let them believe that the Social Credit government has done nothing when as a matter of fact we have done more in the last three years than they have done in a quarter of a century. Most people know this and are amazed to have to hear it from the other side."

Mr. Mullen: "I have learned that in the financial history of Alberta we have failed to provide for the people."

Mr. Manning: "But it is not true that some of the present government in Canada can point the finger at the Alberta government and say 'You haven't kept your promises.'

MOST PROGRESSIVE

Mr. Aberhart: "Not unless they condemn themselves at the same time. We have done more for our people and to the world at large. No one can say we haven't tried."

The premier later said that "I believe I have a progressive attitude at this time to the most progressive people on the Alberta government. Alberta has for many years proven themselves to be in the front rank of all progress."

THE LEADERSHIP

In a speech in spite of the loose talk tactics of some of our newspapers who persist in misrepresenting what I have said, I have declared that the Alberta government is an intelligence of a 13-year-old boy."

"At no time have I ever made any such statement. All such talk is a waste of time. Our people are of a progressive, wide-awake class above the average in intelligence. I have been told by Mr. Manning that I have had for three years taken it on the chin without flinching or grumbling."

"We are not the only ones struggling for personal security and economic freedom. We must expect that when we fight for the right, others will join us. All such important struggles require great courage and determination and those who are not prepared to expect to be misrepresented, slandered, maligned and what not, but they must never give in."

ENTER PRIME RESULTS

"I am a man of my movement. I did so for results, not for glory. In spite of all unpleasantries I shall continue to determine to get results, for results that are to be taken away takes its toll of persecution, opposition and hate. But enough of that."

The premier then turned to a review of the government's activities.

Mr. Mullen: "Did you see what the Liberal party and the new Unity party are saying about the work of the government during its regime?"

Mr. Aberhart: "Yes, Mullen, I did and I can't understand their son making such declarations, which are almost wholly deceptive. It is a matter of the ramification of the raiders and unprogressive people, and on the part of the money monopolists who are directing and controlling the government for the purpose of deceiving and deluding the people."

"It is evident that the financial monopoly is in control. It appears that because of recent action taken by the money interests against this province, the government has rendered helpless and that we are prone to throw up the sponge in despair."

PROGRESS FORWARD

Referring to a recent editorial of a recent article in which it was charged Social Credit was at a "dead end" the premier said: "The financial interlopers are evergreening the mark and should prove to our people that we are still progressing forward. We must be able to keep them from the clutches of the money men who are hissing out from under the floorboards."

"The effect of the voice of the people said, 'We have had enough of the old right and we want to clean up the mess and give us honest and sane administration. Root out the enslaved and give us economic freedom from our bondage, exploitation and oppression.'

DEMOCRACY END

Mr. Manning: "I think you should emphasize the fact that we had to go up against a political situation which was the result of a secret intrigue, directed and paid for by the money monopolists, who had no country and acknowledge allegiance to no flag."

Mr. Aberhart: "Surely, Mr. Manning, the people are aware of that now, even if they did not realize it in 1935. Our previous occasion is DARWIN, Australia, Aug. 22—Darwin, first Australian port of call for Empire air liners, is being rechristened."

Air traffic and strategic command to the Empire, the port of call for former neglected outpost. Some talk even of Darwin as a port of call for the Orient. Darwin is possessed of one of the finest harbors in the Empire.

THE PORT

Mr. Low: "The port of call for the Orient, the port of call for Empire air liners, is being rechristened."

GLADYS SWARTHOUT

Mr. Low quoted from page 4 of the Financial History of Alberta by the Bank of Canada as follows:

"The policies pursued from the time of the formation of the Bank of Canada until the year 1922—the policies pursued had a profound effect on the economy of Alberta."

Mr. Low quoted from the report of the Bank of Canada that "It is the opinion of the Bank of Canada that the 1903-1908 budget which was adopted by our government was not only inadequate to meet its contractual obligations. We were facing a deficit of ours and which could not be met in a few months."

Mr. Low: "I am told that he wanted Mr. Low to tell about the financial problems."

United for Peace

When President Roosevelt ended his speech at Queen's University in which he pledged United States' aid to Canada against attack, the two democracies on this continent stood closer together than at any time in the past decade. Their unity in the face of force was made known to the world.

And that fact was not lost upon Hitler and Mussolini. They sensed the urgency of the warning. They remembered, too, that the President's pledge came a few days after secretary of state Cordell Hull had rebuked those European nations whose success was based upon a breach of law. German and Italian papers had barbed their comment with edged sarcasm in deriding this plea for morality in politics. But they were struck with a curious reserve after Mr. Roosevelt said almost the same thing on Canadian soil. Everyone then knew that Mr. Hull was not giving vent to a personal thesis but was voicing the considered and perhaps irrevocable decision of the United States to oppose anarchy by the rule of law.

Democratic nations, in Thomas Mann's fine phrase, are learning to walk in armour in order to preserve both their liberties and their lives.

A Firm Policy

Premier King's speech at Woodbridge, Ontario, during the week-end did more than stress the government's desire to pursue its defence policy with vision and vigor. It also joined issue with the Tory view of this problem and pointed out the basic difference between the two parties on the defence question.

The Liberal ministry at Ottawa, Mr. King and his colleagues, shun their efforts to protect Canada by an adequate system of national defence against aggression from an alien power. That decision commands itself to the vast majority of citizens. In a turbulent world that often lies at the edge of war such a program does nothing more than conform to the safety of humanity and common sense.

Nor will Canada, by its weakness, permit this country to be made the base of an attack on the United States. Mr. King emphatically endorsed President Roosevelt's assurance that authorities at Washington would not stand supinely by while Canada was being harried by an aggressor. He coupled with that remark his own pledge of aid to our neighbor, should war or the danger of war come upon it.

Now what is the Tory policy? It was stated by Mr. Meighen at the party convention in Ottawa. He poured scorn on Mr. King's rotted conviction that Canada should look after her own defences. He mocked the idea that the United States and Canada should band, by geographic as well as reason, to stand shoulder to shoulder against an aggressor who could not but be their common enemy. All he wanted the Dominion to do was consent to become the puppet of Empire policy as framed in London.

He was convinced of the wisdom of this policy. It does not take much to convince Mr. Meighen that any policy, being his, must be wise. "Independent and separate defence of Canada," he cried, "is an idle dream."

This is the discredited defence program of the discredited Tory party. Canadians should be proud that they have a government too conscious of this country's destiny to sink into such vassalage, and resolved instead to take its manifold part in the stirring tasks that await it, both for its own and the Empire's safety.

Naughty Franco

General Franco has stuck out his tongue at the non-intervention committee once again. His blunt refusal to let Italy and Germany, standing behind his forces, should surprise no one, not even the members of that credulous body. For two years Spain has been gripped by a brutal war. All that time Franco has defied the will of Europe. As long as he needs foreign help to crown his revolt with success he will not scruple to use it, no matter what England or France may say.

Even more vexing is his open defiance of the committee is the tedious and paltry quibble by which he seeks to mask his recalcitrance. He promises safe entry to foreign shipping at two Spanish ports. That means that food or supplies sent to all other ports will be unsafe and will be bombed. Spain is too big, too much under the thumb of Franco now, to allow the starving people struggling for the broken government forces to be fed from two small ports.

Besides, if his demand for belligerent rights is granted, he can enforce a blockade and few ships would venture upon Franco's war waters, despite his pledge of safe conduct.

So intervention will continue and unrest in Europe steadily go on. Franco will be neither frank nor friendly until his master, Mussolini, gives him permission.

Last month Il Duce, in a brazen gesture, flourished his support of Franco before the whole world. He sent the following personal message to the rebel: "On the occasion of the second anniversary of your national revolution, which will be consecrated by victory on the third anniversary, I send you my greetings, and with them an expression of sympathy and admiration of the Italian people. Fascist Italy is proud to have given a contribution of blood and material to your victory over the destructive forces of Spain and Europe."

Wouldn't the non-intervention committee be wise to save both time and postage stamps by sending all its future requests to Franco direct to Mussolini? All he does is forward them to the sawdust Caesar at Rome.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COPWER

Had a silly sounding dream last night that has taken away any fears of old age—if I ever had any. Dreamt I was searching in a van for a job. All the places I used to know were filled with youngsters who "know not Joseph." Smart shiny limousines flashed by me as I tramped on the pavements.

A TRUCK LUCKY OWNER I recognized several times. I was the lucky owner who seemingly had risen in the social scale after crowding me out at numerous crossings, and now were riding on the cushions.

Happy thought! I got a job as a truck driver. On the bridge of a sort of Mauretania on wheels I was driving across the ocean and land, and at all the crossings truck drivers who had stolen the right of way from me now had to keep out of the way or take the consequences.

Silly dream, but it was a reminder that there is (or may be) a law of compensation running through life.

Now I saw a colored gen'man walk into a restaurant, plainly lettered "WHITE LUNCH" and get served. Never saw that happen before in a quarter century of observing.

My goodness, how time flies! Only eight more days until school starts again. Only 10 days since we last saw you. I hope you cadets are finishing your examinations and starting your holidays.

All we have got to do is wait.

September 24 and the Lions Club Model Airplane races will be here and gone before you know it. So if you are interested in flying, enter the contest and try to win some of the great prizes. You'd better get started.

I got out one of the official Jimmie Allen's Model plane building kits yesterday to take a look at it. It is a honey of a set and that plane is really a beauty.

I've seen a great many model airplane kits lately and I want to tell you that this is just about as sweet a kit as I have ever seen. The instructions are clear and the instructions are complete, the plans are full size, and everything that you need is included.

You can get this kit from your nearest B.A. Service Station or by writing to the B.A. Oil Company, 1000 10th Street, Bismarck, N.D. 50 cents, and I have seen kits that weren't nearly as good or complete as this one for as much as $1.00. This is a real bargain. Boys who live out of town may get the kit by sending one dollar and five cents to the B.A. Oil Company, Bismarck.

I am sending a start with my plans right away and I want you to get the kit and get started. You can build your plane together. I would also suggest that you clip this column every day and keep it in a scrap book because it is going to contain a lot of useful information.

If you haven't got the plan columns in the Bulletin, write to the Bulletin to show them to you.

Remember, September 24 is the date for the races. Get your kit at the B.A. Service Station and go to Jimmie Allen from Toronto and to Phil Morris at the Edmonton Bulletin. Run the news to your friends and tell your friends about it. And if there is anything you want to know about the planes, write to care of the Bulletin and I'll try to answer all your questions.

Back in the arms of his father, three-month-old Peter Balon of Toronto, seems none the worse for his more than 40 hours of wandering through wild bush country of the Muskoka region. When Britain Staged Greatest Mock Air Raids

Taken in the south of England during the latest air-raid preparedness drills, these pictures illustrate the measures Britain is taking to see that her civilian population is protected as much as possible from the explosive and incendiary bombs that are expected to be rained on the country by enemy planes in the event of war in Europe. At the left is seen a rapidly constructed anti-aircraft defense post, a circle of sand bags thrown up to protect the operator of one of the newest anti-aircraft machine-guns. The heavy clothing worn is made of special material designed to stop gas. On the right two gunners of a squadron of fighting planes are prepared to drop their incendiary bombs in order to target the imaginary foe. More than 1,000 fighting planes took part in the maneuvers which formed part of one of the greatest tests of her air defense Britain has staged.

Weds at Grave Brink

Critically injured in an automobile accident and with her life hanging in the balance, Mrs. Margaret Hilger was married in the Fairmount, Ohio, home to John Hilger, her sweetheart for two years and companion. The accident that caused her injury, Hilger said, was the result of the mishap with only bruises and lacerations, but his bride has since had three blood transfusions and it was necessary to amputate her right hand. The wedding was performed by Dr. D. C. Dickey, who conducted the marriage ceremony in the flower-decked hospital room.

Panic Reigns When Hundreds of Persons Trap-ped Train Tragedy

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Two men were killed and 49 persons were injured Monday when a subway train smashed into the rear of another train at the upper east side of Manhattan.

An instant after the heavy impact, which muted the crash winds, hundreds of passengers, many of whom screamed and were trampled underfoot, caught for several minutes behind the momentum of locked doors of the two trains.

The two killed were the motormen of the second train and a passenger who was hit by them. Their car was telescoped five feet into the rear of the train ahead.

Major LaGuardia, who hurried to the scene in a police car, then ordered a thorough investigation by police.

LABOR CHIEFS FIGHT FRENCH GOVERNMENT

Oppose Daladier For Retention of the 40-Hour Week—Strike Looms

Montreal, Aug. 22.—French labor leaders rallied their forces today to fight the Daladier government for retention of the 40-hour week, and to demand the possibility of a general strike.

The General Confederation of Labor, which lists 5,000,000 members in France, called a strike of its members to be ready for action. Frenchmen in the offensive were given orders to force the Marseilles stevedores to unload perishables from ships in French ports and thereby exceed their 40-hour work period.

GRAVE DECISIONS

The Federation of Port Workers, the CGT, and the CGT, which together make up the French labor movement, were given orders unless extra pay for overtime was granted the Marseilles members, and labor circles said this was a threat of a strike in all French ports.

The strike was organized from French leaders' desire to have a strike night to increase working periods to speed national defense and insure the survival of the uncertain international situation.

QUICKLY REPLACED

The minister of public works and the minister of labor were quickly replaced by André Moniz and Charles Pomaret, also members of the Socialist Union. Pomaret is the Socialist party's official spokesman.

This did not ease opposition to Daladier's policies, however, as he officially opens the Canadian National Exhibition today.

The premier was said to be convinced that the strike would not be a blow to the economy, and that parliament in the belief he could win his point with the support of the Rightists, parties which had rallied as that of a "courageous patriot."

PADLOCK LAW HITS CHARITIES IN MONTREAL

One Door Building Wanted By Communists Causes Odd Situation

MONTREAL, Aug. 22.—Because of the odd situation, an office of three Montreal charitable organizations was forced to move to another building Monday when provincial police officers padlocked the entrance to a meeting hall.

The office, which had been in the building with the offices of the anti-communist squad had made inquiries last evening.

Police, fearing the padlock might make it difficult to get in, had nothing to do with the offices of the charitable organizations.

"A general progressive lowering of the level of water in the under-ground reservoirs has been taking place over a long period, but during the past few years the water has become more marked," he reported.
